iPhone / iPad / iPod app for BARD now out

NLS has released the iOS BARD app, BARD Mobile, which allows readers to download audio and braille books directly to Apple devices. Please be aware you must register for BARD, the NLS download service, before using the app. iPhone users should also know that downloading books can eat up a lot of the data quota you may have from your cell phone service provider; downloading books via WiFi is more reliable and does not impact your data quota. The app for Android devices has not yet been released.

VT State Library now has ZoomText

The Vermont State Library, located in the Pavilion building at 109 State Street in Montpelier, now has a public computer set up with ZoomText Magnifier/Reader software, a large print high contrast keyboard, document camera and headphones. The software can enlarge the computer screen up to 36x, and can also read the screen aloud. Among the electronic resources now more accessible in the State Library as a result are Westlaw, the Foundation Directory Online, Ancestry.com (International Edition), and Sanborn Fire Insurance Maps. The document camera can be used to enlarge text from a book or other image and transmit it to the computer screen for viewing or for the screen reader to read aloud. It is also possible to record the screen reader reading as an audio file.

First locally recorded talking book completed!

We are pleased to announce that we have recorded our first locally recorded digital talking book. The book is Invasion on the Mountain, by Judith Edwards, book number VTD 1, the first of a historical fiction trilogy about the Civilian Conservation Corps on Mt. Ascutney in the 1930s. Although written for middle schoolers and only 90 minutes long, adults may also be interested. The book was recorded by volunteers Frederick Barrett and Monique Signorat, in space made available by the Vermont Association for the Blind & Visually Impaired. Recording of the other books in the trilogy is already underway. We have plans to record books by Jody Williams, Chris Graff, Howard Coffin, and Sydney Lea.

2014 VT Reads book Wonder available

The Vermont Humanities Council has chosen Wonder, by R. J. Palacio, as the 2014 Vermont Reads title. The book can be downloaded from BARD or borrowed from the Library under book number DB 74228. The book is suitable for adults and children from 5th grade up. Contact your local public library to see if it is sponsoring any VT Reads programs.

Nominate special postal carrier by April 15

Nominations are now being accepted for the Postal Carrier of the Year award co-sponsored by the Library and the Vermont Council of the Blind. If you have a postal carrier who goes above and beyond to serve you, tell us about it. We will accept written or emailed nominations, or you may call 1-800-479-1711 after 4:30pm on weekdays or any time on weekends and leave a detailed message under 3 minutes in length on our voice mail. The winning nomination must do a good job of explaining why the postal carrier is special. Deadline for nominations is April 15.

Book player battery not holding a charge?

The battery life of the NLS digital book player gradually reduces over time. If the battery on your player lasts less than 12 hours between charges and you need the player to be portable, send it back to us for replacement. Please include a note or call us first so we know what the problem is.

To extend the life of your battery, leave the player plugged in most of the time. Try not to leave it unused for long periods of time without having it plugged in. Be advised that use of flash drives runs the battery down faster than using cartridges. Of course, as with any electronics, it would be wise to unplug the player during thunderstorms and power outages.
