★ A "HELLO" FROM OUR NEW DIRECTOR ★

It is my pleasure to join your community of active readers!

Originally from the Boston-area, I went to school here in central Vermont and have almost fifteen years experience as a special collections practitioner. For the past six years, I have been training information professionals to serve special populations and engage with diverse communities.

Our staff here is so dedicated and I feel lucky to become part of the Special Service Unit's long history of excellence. I am looking forward to discovering things together with all of you – one book at a time.

Vincent Livoti, PhD

Consultant for Special Populations, Vermont Department of Libraries
Director, Library for the Blind and Visually Impaired
