

VTLIB PRESENTS: TUESDAY TALKS

Channeling John Dewey: What Would Vermont's Philosopher Have to Say About Personalized Learning?

Tuesday, January 22, 2019

12:00-1:00 pm

Pavilion Building Auditorium

How can we build bridges from our current competitive, test-driven, increasingly standardized educational model to a more holistic approach that values the individual, strengthens communities, and creates a more livable world?

Kathleen Kesson is Professor Emerita of Teaching, Learning and Leadership in the School of Education at LIU-Brooklyn. She is the former Director of Teacher Education at Goddard College, and was Director of the John Dewey Project on Progressive Education at the University of Vermont. She now lives full time in Barre, Vermont, where she is deeply involved in research on personalized learning in Vermont schools. Learn more about her at: <https://kathleenkesson.com>

VERMONT DEPARTMENT OF LIBRARIES
(802) 636-0040
HTTPS://LIBRARIES.VERMONT.GOV